

Home and Community Education

What is HCE?

Home and Community Education is a part of the University of Wisconsin Extension Service. Members meet as community clubs and do the following:

- Study family living related subjects (foods, consumer ideas, household tips, time management, health and wellness, family and leadership.)
- Support community service projects by volunteering and raising funds to donate.
- Meet new people and socialize with other members from all over the county and the state.
- Have fun!!

How do I find a club to join?

You can call UW-Extension, Barron County and they will connect you with the current Board president (contact information below)

Can I start a new club in my area?

Absolutely! All you have to do to start your own club is have four or five individuals gather at your home or community location. We will give you information on how to get started. You can meet whenever you want and wherever you want.

Contact UW-Extension Barron County for more information on starting your own club or joining an already existing club.

(715) 537-6256

Is There a Cost?

The only cost is a membership fee of $10.00 per year which includes lesson materials plus a newsletter on upcoming meetings, consumer information and family topics.

How Often do they Meet?

Once a month (except for summer months) Clubs meet in neighboring areas. Each month there is a lesson or topic of interest.
